

SOP for Resolving ALARM_4861 on Cisco Access Switch Bangalore KA-76

Node: Cisco-Access-Bangalore-KA-76 | Vendor: Cisco | Severity: Critical | Alarm Code: ALARM_4861

Description

The ALARM_4861 on Cisco Access Switch Bangalore KA-76 indicates a critical issue with the switch's forwarding capacity, likely due to a hardware or software malfunction.

Potential Root Causes

Cause	Probability
Hardware malfunction or failure of the switch's forwarding module	High
Software bug or mismatch in the switch's forwarding configuration	Medium
Overload or congestion on the switch's forwarding ports	Low

Diagnostic Commands

```
show system resources | include Forwarding
show version
show interface status | include Forwarding
show tech-support
```

Resolution Steps

- Step 1: {'Step': '1. Perform a graceful restart of the switch', 'Description': "Enter the command ' reload at 30' to schedule a restart in 30 minutes", 'CLI_Command': 'reload at 30'}
- Step 2: {'Step': '2. Inspect the switch's forwarding module for physical damage', 'Description': 'Verify that the module is securely seated and not damaged'}
- Step 3: {'Step': '3. Upgrade the switch's software to the latest version', 'Description': "Enter the command ' copy tftp://cisco-nxos.9.2.1.bin flash: '}
- Step 4: {'Step': '4. Clear the forwarding configuration', 'Description': "Enter the command ' clear forwarding config'}

Post-Check Verification

```
show system resources | include Forwarding
show version
```

```
show interface status | include Forwarding
```